On expo objectives:

I don't really mind, but I do think there needs to be a clearly defined objective

I'd probably go looking for something that had been overlooked previously or surface work at a promising altitude looking for horizontal entrances

Continue the resurvey project to fix our major errors. That currently means Balkon and/or Tunnocks primarily, but I'm don't mind doing other stuff

Prospecting in the general direction of the Schoenberg and potentially around Organhoehle

I would like to spend a couple of days tying up loose ends in Organhoehle area (surface legs to a GPS point so we can better see the relationship between Organhoehle and Guten Morgen; location of base of Elefant shakehole) but this would only be a small side objective and wouldn't need a big team. Other than that happy to get involved in wherever, I haven't been to Fish Face or Homecoming at all.

Anything that is realistic when considering no of people, experience, length, weather etc

We'd probably want to continue to work on the area between 76 and the master cave, but that doesn't need to affect other objectives

I am happy with either moving west and setting up new top camp at Butterfly Cave nearer Homeconing, which is my slightly preferred option. But also very good lead indeed in Balcony. We just need to have realistic aims for time and people available.

I think they are all amazing caves but would like to start pushing out west and aim to make the big connection within the next 10 years

On expo top camp

Unsure as not been to expo for a bit

This depends on the planned objectives, if we're wanting to keep pushing Tunnocks and Balkon then at least a lightweight camp at Stone Bridge, if not then we should make preparations for heading west. As I wasn't there the last 2 years I don't know how quick it would be to move to a new location.

Second camp between fischgesicht and homecoming. Keep stone bridge for balcony

Definitely go lightwieght. If the objectives are Balkon, stay at the stone bridge. If they're west, go west. But we should pick an area to focus on

Depends on how many people sign up

Depends on whether the consensus is to go West or push deep balcony. My slight preference is to move camp west.

Bit hard for me to comment on this not having been out the last two years. But by the sound of it there were too many irons in the fire last year.

Discuss having satellite camps for homecoming etc

Other offers:

- Haydon (likely) - Happy to do what I can. Probably not leader but could be persuaded/take on a bit. As long as the aim is to keep things simple this time.
- Katey Bender (definitely not coming) - Will help with anything that can be done from another time zone
- Olly (depends on house building) - Happy to wrangle Survex fixes and features if people tell me in plenty of time.
- Adelaide de Diesbach (likely) - Not sure yet! I will keep up with the emails and decide where I can help. I definitely want to help this awesome expo in some ways tho
- Frank Tully (likely) - I used to do charging, but anything technical, bolts perhaps.
- Lydia (definite) - Anything that needs doing
- Elaine (somewhat likely) - German stuff (permission letter, Robert liaison officer); general advice; pointers about grants (I did a lot of research for 2017 and found a few we haven't been applying for but that year were either too late or ultimately unsuccessful apart from GPF). It's probably useful if whoever does gear has an idea of the current state of affairs, which I don't really - happy to do ordering though. But maybe it makes more sense for one or two people to do gear coord and ordering together?
- Mark Shinwell (somewhat likely) - I'm happy to arrange the permit again with the Austrian government, as I've got good context from this year. Plus whatever other help as time permits, I should be much less busy next year than in recent ones.
